Six girl students of the Ansar Women's College, Perumbilavu, near Kunnamkulam, have been hospitalised with suspected symptoms of food poisoning. District medical officer (DMO) Dr Sreedevi said the students were hospitalised after they complained of vomiting and diarrhoea.

As per preliminary reports, the students had consumed food provided by a catering firm from Edappal, in Malappuram district, during an event held at the college two days ago. About 250 students had consumed that non-vegetarian food, and six of them have developed symptoms. Their condition is not serious, Dr Sreedevi said.

A team of health department officials has rushed to the college and they will prepare a detailed report, she said.
