Six cows were found dead and 12 fell ill in a cow shelter (gaushala) in Parauli Ramaian village in Basrehar block of Etawah district on Monday.

Locals of the area, who visited the gaushala found that there were more than 1000 animals in the gaushala, out of which six were found dead while 12 have fallen ill.

Subsequently, they brought the matter to the knowledge of senior district authorities and asked them to constitute a team of veterinary doctors to inspect the gaushala and conduct post-mortem of the dead cows to ascertain the cause of their death.

"We have come to know about the incident. The district veterinary officer has been asked to inspect the gaushala and submit his report. The cause of death of the cows is being ascertained", said SDM Sadar Siddarth.

The gaushala is run by the management of Sankat Mochan Balaji temple.

The people working in the gaushala said the animals are dying due to shortage of food.

Manager of Sankat Mochan Balaji temple Manish Yadav Patre blamed the authorities for not releasing funds for the cows.

"There are more than 1000 cows in the gaushala. We have not received funds from the block development office. We informed the authorities in February itself about shortage of funds but to avail," Patre said.
